

Shared Accountability. Accountability under the legislation is based on performance standards. Performance measures and levels are proposed by states and negotiated with the federal agencies to specify the results expected under the state's plans. Incentive grants for high performance are awarded to states on the basis of results achieved by workforce investment, adult education and literacy, and vocational education programs combined.