

Develop a list of desired skills.

You can't formulate insightful questions until you know what skills to look for. Since most state positions require strong writing skills, be sure to include a writing sample. If the position will require presentations or putting together training workshops, you may want to give them a sample topic and ask them to prepare a brief oral presentation.